Brand frame: Editorial senior portraiture, boutique service, parent trust, and confident self-expression.

Overview

The two website options are built from the audit, market research, customer avatar, and brand guide. Both concepts use the same business strategy: premium senior portraiture, parent trust, local search clarity, and AI-readable page structure.

Each option includes seven static pages:

- Home
- Senior Portraits
- Family Portraits
- Gallery
- About
- Investment or Raves
- Contact/Inquire

Option 1: Editorial Heirloom

Tone: refined, editorial, polished, parent-trust-heavy.

Best for:

- Raising perceived value.
- Explaining heirloom products and in-person ordering.
- Making the $799+ investment feel grounded in service and permanence.
- Attracting parents who want a premium but tasteful experience.

Strategic corrections:

- Uses clear service routing.
- Adds direct answer sections for AEO/GEO.
- Makes investment and products visible.
- Balances senior confidence with parent assurance.

Option 2: Modern Muse

Tone: fresh, confident, social-forward, senior-led.

Best for:

- Appealing quickly to students.
- Building a model-team or ambassador direction later.
- Showing personality-led galleries.
- Keeping the brand youthful without losing polish.

Strategic corrections:

- Makes the senior's identity the first visual hook.
- Adds style-led gallery pathways.
- Keeps parent logistics visible.
- Uses stronger color energy from the existing brand board.

Recommendation

Option 1 is the safer premium conversion choice if the business wants to emphasize investment, products, and parent confidence.

Option 2 is the better brand-growth choice if Emily wants the site to feel more current to seniors and eventually support a senior team/referral engine.

The strongest final site could combine Option 1's buying clarity with Option 2's gallery energy.
